Subject: Call for proposals D3.2 – 2024

With reference to the subject Call for proposals and to the submission of a project proposal entitled “Paradigmi culturali, innovazione e dinamiche cognitive-formative in società complesse e tecnologicamente avanzate.”, I, Professor Paolo D. Farah (Founder, President and Director of gLAWcal – Global Law Initiatives for Sustainable Development; Full Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy at West Virginia University; Coordinator of the West Virginia University, Eberly College Interdisciplinary Research Collaborative on Global Challenges and Local Response Initiatives; Visiting Professor at University of Pittsburgh Law School), hereby confirm that I intend to participate as an expert in the above-mentioned research, if the proposal is accepted for funding.

gLAWcal is an independent non-profit research organization (think-tank). Through research and policy analysis, gLAWcal sheds a new light on issues such as good governance, human rights, right to water, rights to food, social, economic and cultural rights, labour rights, access to knowledge, public health, social welfare, consumer interests and animal welfare, climate change, energy, environmental protection and sustainable development, product safety, food safety and security. All these values are directly affected by the global expansion of world trade and should be upheld to balance the excesses of globalization. More information could be found at our website: <http://www.glawcal.org.uk>

gLAWcal has been the coordinator, co-coordinator or major partner of various European Commission funded research projects in collaboration with networks of European universities and institutions in Asia, Middle East and United States for an overall amount of € 2 million www.glawcal.org.uk/research-projects

gLAWcal is also currently coordinator and partner of proposals submitted for European Commission HorizonEurope call for applications. gLAWcal scholarly network spans the US, the United Kingdom and across the world including Europe, Asia, Latin America and Middle East and it has been collaborating with over 300 international, public and private organizations and academic institutions in various capacities, with different academic purposes in teaching, research and service activities.

gLAWcal has organized numerous training programs, international conferences, workshops and scholarly exchanges including events in collaboration with such organizations as the American Society of International Law, the European Society of International Law, and several other professional societies and organizations. If the team would be awarded this grant from Catholic University of Milan, gLAWcal will be collaborating with Catholic University of Milan to organize call for papers for workshops and international conferences as part of this research proposal and will facilitate the promotion of the event and the following publication, involving its gLAWcal Senior Research Associates and staff in these activities. www.glawcal.org.uk/events gLAWcal is also the home for three prestigious book series with international publishers such as Transnational Law and Governance (Routledge Publishing, Taylor & Francis Group, New-York/London), Global Law and Sustainable Development (Routledge Publishing, Taylor & Francis Group, New-York/London), and Global Issues (Palgrave MacMillan, London, United Kingdom): www.glawcal.org.uk/books These book series might be possible avenues for publication for some selected scientific results of the project on “Communicating science. Mediation and intermediaries of scientific knowledge in complex society”.

Acknowledging that the funding is solely intended for members of Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, it is understood that working arrangements between the parties, duration, availability of resources, arrangements regarding intellectual property rights (I.P.R.), confidentiality and other contractual terms will be defined by a special agreement to be concluded between the parties after the approval of the above-mentioned project.

To whom it may concern

As the Head Officer of the Servizio di conciliazione Camera Arbitrale di Milano (Mediation Office, Milan Chamber of Arbitration), I endorse the following project:

“RA: Prassi didattico-formativa: l’esperienza della didattica nelle scienze giuridiche (Responsabile: Prof.ssa Raffaella Muroi, Settore Scientifico-Disciplinare IUS/15)” Research Line D3.2, Catholic University of Milan, proposed da Professor Raffaella Muroi (Full Professor in Civil Procedure Law and Legal Clinics in civil and commercial law) and colleagues within the general project

PARADIGMI CULTURALI, INNOVAZIONE E DINAMICHE COGNITO-FORMATIVE IN SOCIETA’ COMPLESSE E TECNOLOGICAMENTE AVANZATE

I think this project is particularly timely because it aims at investigating a very important issue in contemporary education. It can contribute to deciding which modes of teaching are most effective, based on scientifically reliable data. Also, from an ethical point of view, the advancement that this line of research promises seems of considerable interest. More specifically, in the field of mediation and alternative dispute resolution, this project can be significantly useful given the increasing use of online interaction tools by mediators, parties and lawyers.

Sincerely

With reference to the subject Call for proposals and to the submission by Professor Giovanni Bombelli as Coordinator of a project proposal entitled “Paradigmi culturali, innovazione e dinamiche cognitivo-formative in società complesse e tecnologicamente avanzate”, also involving for a term of 3 (three) years, I, Ilaria Marchetti, in my role of President hereby confirm that I intend to participate as a stakeholder in the above-mentioned research, if the proposal is accepted for funding.

I, together with the other members of the board and affiliated associations, especially wish to contribute to understand the impacts of AI and new technologies on intellectual jobs and professions.

Acknowledging that the funding is solely intended for members of Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, it is understood that working arrangements between the parties, duration, availability of resources, arrangements regarding intellectual property rights (I.P.R.), confidentiality and other contractual terms will be defined by a special agreement to be concluded between the parties after the approval of the above-mentioned project.

Yours faithfully,

Per il consiglio direttivo dell'Istituto di Mediazione familiare e Sociale di Brescia
Dott.ssa Ilaria Marchetti
